

Saint Proclus of Constantinople. General Aspects of his Work.
Sermon XIV. On the Holy Easter

Fr. Senior Lecturer PhD BĂJĂU CONSTANTIN,
University of Craiova,
geo_bajau_2004@yahoo.com

Abstract

This great patriarch of Constantinople was Joan Crysosthom's disciple and a famous preacher of those times. He was an irenic spirit. Saint Proclus' Sermons were delivered in the context of the christological polemics and they releaved him as a defender of the unity of the divine and human nature in the unique Being of our Lord Jesus Christ. His most important apologetic work is his Tome to the Armenians.

In relation to the various aspects of Saint Proclus' teaching we could refer to: his spiritual life that can only be understood in the light of Christ's teaching; the trinitarian bound of the divine Persons and Christ's iconomy, for the redemption of humankind; in his teaching on the Holy Virgin, he inititates, together with Saint Cyril of Alexandria, the homiletic mariological style; at the core of Saint Patroclus' theology lies his teaching on the Incarnation and his fight against the heresy of Nestorianism. These are but a few of his theological teachings. The article also includes the translation of a sermon delivered on the occasion of the Holy Easter, which continues the series of his sermons on the great holy celebrations, translated into Romanian.