Abstract

In accordance with our title, the article presents the external influence on the Romanian names. The Romanian onomastics is a vast one, starting with the Christian influence from Greek and Latin, continuing with the German, Arabic and Slavic language. Today, when we meet in our society parents with different opinions when they have to give to their children a name, I think is very important to understand the etymology of the name in order to choose in full conscience. And in this direction, our article can be a helpful one.
