Abstract

Mysteries of confession and Eucharist are mysteries of church, which were established by Christ the Saviour, the proof being the words of the Holy Scriptures. These two mysteries join the believer to God, they being as a gate of entrance towards the Empire of Heavens. Through Confession, the priest gives the believers unbinding of sins, forgiveness for them being received from Jesus Christ. The believer must be comprised by repentance and he must take the commitment not to commit again the confessed sins. The priest must give the believer one canon of repentance, in order to be eucharistized.

Eucharist is the greatest mystery of church. Through it, the man joins in a untold way with Christ. That's why the priest must urge congregation to confess as often as possible. Those that confess must be worthy for this kind of event from their life. The priest's responsibility for those whom he confesses must be increased, due to the eucharistic realism.
