Abstract

Life and death are not two distinct themes, but are a single one, essential for every one of us. Saint Gregory of Nyssa, in his works, helps us to better understand this subject. Death has a way of its work on humans since Adam`s falling until the Becoming of the Son and a totally different presence and work since the moment of „New Adam`s” coming. For the love of us, God comes and heals us from the state of mortality, removes us from the domination of death. The place where a Christian gets immortality and redemption is the Church. At God`s second coming, the work of death in the world will end.
