Abstract

Resisting the torment of the torturers, prison confessors gave us an example to follow for each of us. By this example, saints who have died in prisons can bring people to Christ. The long-suffering with which they resisted helps us to confess it in a secularized world. Reading their life stories, the suffering they have endured tempts us to imitate it in a world full of temptations. Our article explains in a few pages this reality of those people who were in prisons or even died in for their faith in Christ, the Incarnated Son of God, our Savior.
