Abstract
In this multi-religious world, religious dialogue is very important in the relations between people belonging to different cultures. Thus through this article an outline of the primordial aspects of the Islamic faith is attempted for a better understanding of the religious life of Muslims. The Islamic religion is based on five pillars of faith, which every Muslim must respect throughout his life. Through this article we also can understand the importance of these pillars of the Islamic faith and more than that, we can understand why it is important that we, those of another religion, we must respect every human in the light of Christian love.
